at the Gilsum Community Center

Please join the Gilsum Conservation Commission as Phil Brown, Harris Center Bird Conservation Director and raptor aficionado, shares an overview of the hawk migration season and the soaring spectacle visible from the Pack Monadnock Raptor Observatory in Peterborough, which has been tallying migrating raptors for over twenty years. Learn identification tips, life histories, and survival strategies for the fifteen or so raptor species that visit this outlook each fall, and hear about the research and conservation initiatives to protect them. You'll be well prepared to witness and enjoy fall migration after this informative session.
